

Riello Elettronica expands in the USA

With the acquisition of Santa Fe Power Solutions Inc., the Riello Elettronica Group expands and consolidates its presence in the US market

Legnago, 6th august 2025. The Riello Elettronica Group, led by Cav. Lav. Pierantonio Riello and focused on the electronics, energy, automation, and security sectors, announces that it has acquired Santa Fe Power Solutions Inc., a US company based in Florida with proven expertise in the sale, installation, and servicing of emergency power supply equipment.

The acquisition was carried out through the subsidiary RPS America Inc., which has been operating in the US since 2016 and has enjoyed steady growth. With the acquisition of Santa Fe Power Solutions, it aims to further consolidate its presence in the important American market.

From a strategic point of view, the acquisition of Santa Fe Power Solutions, whose assets include extensive experience in airport security controls, will enable the Verona-based Group to become a key player in the US market for air traffic control protection devices, an area where energy continuity and quality are of vital importance.

In addition, Santa Fe Power Solutions brings with it a highly experienced technical team which, in synergy with the RPS America Inc. network, will be able to guarantee even more widespread and responsive coverage for the various critical power protection solutions available across the vast US territory.

"This acquisition," explains President Pierantonio Riello, "will enable us to enrich the range of Riello UPS products on offer in the North American market, where our Group has been present for several years with a steadily growing commercial presence. With this acquisition," concludes the President, "our Group once again confirms its vocation as an ambassador for Italian manufacturing in Europe and around the world."
